James Halliday Wine Companion 2018

“From the estate vineyard in Calrendon, crushed into an open fermenter and fortified on skins: an expensive way of halting fermentation, but it leads to greater colour and tannin extract. This is ofcourse, what we used to call vintage port, and is a very good example. You can drink it now, but i would leave it for at least 20 years.”

“Opaque black violet colour. Fruity, spicy, herbal aromas and flavours of eucalyptus, blueberry chutney, menthol tobacco, and vanilla mint fudge with a satiny, tangy moderately sweet medium-to-full body and a tingling. Subtle long spiced cherries and honeyed huckleberries finish with a suggestion of oak. A rich Late Bottle Vintage style Australian port that will put a pleasureable period on a perfect meal.”
